

CORPORATE AMERICA VS CORPORATE YOU

Who will win?

BY: KRISTY JOHNSON

A full time entrepreneur is one who solely works their business on a daily basis without financial contributions from "Corporate America".

This economy has forced full time entrepreneurs around the world to put their pride and ego on the shelf to consider other financial means to support themselves. When your back is up against the wall, the phone is ringing off the hook from bill collectors, your kids need money for school activities or maybe you just need some gas money to make it through the week, its time to consider other options.

My friend (who will remain nameless) has committed to self-sabotaging herself! Her mortgage is behind and is facing foreclosure and her lights have been disconnected for non-payment. Yet she refuses to go back to work because she says "it's not worth it". For the life of me, I was extremely confused and tried to bring a logical approach to the
